Message from our Community Foundation

An extraordinary year. 2010 will be remembered as a very special year for our regional Community Foundation — the first year in our 14-year history when total grants and scholarships awarded exceeded the $1 million mark, and a record-breaking year of significant growth in donations and assets.

More than $1 Million Distributed in our Communities
Because of the generosity of our many donors who have established funds, our Community Foundation distributed more than $1 million in grants and scholarships in 2010. This is an exciting milestone for us, and we are especially pleased to be able to distribute these funds in a year of lingering recession, a year that has been difficult for many in our communities. With many people out of work, worried about losing their homes or being unable to pay medical bills, the involvement and generosity of so many people who care and the quality and range of services provided by the nonprofits we support is impressive and important.

Tremendous Generosity and Growth
2010 was also a year of tremendous growth. Our Community Foundation received contributions totaling more than $16 million, resulting in 128% growth in total assets in one year. As of 12/31/10, our assets totaled $29,075,298. This growth was fueled by two significant end-of-life gifts from generous and kind-hearted women who made provisions to help others in the communities in which they lived for decades (see special memorial stories on page 10).

Expanding Community of Donors
Our Community Foundation continues to work with more and more people who want to help our community through a charitable legacy. Our donors have their own charitable interests and come from different backgrounds and economic means and walks of life. But they all share something in common… a desire to make a difference in our community. All donations — large or small, now or at end-of-life — are appreciated, as we build an institution of permanent philanthropic capital to help improve life for people in western Colorado.

We invite you to learn more about some of our donors and how they have left their mark.

Mission and Purpose
The mission of the Western Colorado Community Foundation (WCCF)
■ to promote charitable giving
■ to build and manage charitable endowment funds
■ to provide grants and other resources to benefit the residents and communities of Western Colorado

2010 Highlights
■ Over $1 million in grants and scholarships awarded
■ 110 students helped with scholarship support
■ $16 million in new contributions
■ $29 million in assets — 128% growth in total assets from previous year
■ 10 new endowment funds established
■ 4 new charitable legacy planned gifts documented
Types of Funds

WCCF offers a number of different types of endowment funds for donors:

DONOR-ADvised FUNDS
provide the ultimate flexibility, allowing the donor to recommend specific organizations to receive grants each year.

DESIGNATED FUNDS
are established by donors who wish to support a favorite specific charitable organization.

AGENCY ENDOWMENTS
are established by nonprofit organizations to provide income for themselves.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS
are established to provide funds for students’ education.

FIELD-OF-INTEREST FUNDS
are for a broad area of interest such as children and youth or arts and culture. WCCF will make grants to organizations making a difference in that arena.

GEOGRAPHIC AREA FUNDS
benefit a particular geographic area or community designated by the donor.

UNRESTRICTED FUNDS
enable WCCF to respond to changing community needs.

Ways to Give

There are many ways to give to the Western Colorado Community Foundation:

CASH
is the simplest way to give and always welcome. A cash gift provides immediate tax benefits to the donor.

MEMORIAL
contributions may be made in the honor or memory of a family member, friend or other loved one.

STOCK & SECURITIES
can be donated to the Community Foundation. Appreciated securities have double tax advantage. The donor gets an annual charitable tax deduction and avoids capital gains taxes.

REAL ESTATE
and other property can be donated to the Community Foundation, again with special tax benefits.

LIFE INSURANCE
A donor can name WCCF as beneficiary of an existing policy that is no longer needed, or consider purchasing a life insurance policy naming the Community Foundation as irrevocable beneficiary. The latter approach allows the donor to deduct the premiums paid from his or her tax bill.

LIFE INCOME GIFTS
Special techniques such as a Charitable Gift Annuity or Charitable Remainder Trust allow the donor to receive considerable tax deductions and an income for life. When the donor passes away, the remainder transfers to WCCF for use specified by the donor.

BEQUEST OR ESTATE GIFT
People who care about western Colorado may name the Western Colorado Community Foundation in their will or estate plan. Even though the gift matures later, the donor is honored and recognized during his or her lifetime as a member of the WCCF Legacy Society.
Emogene’s Fund
Grantmaking for Impact

A social worker by training, Emogene Edwards worked for many years at Hilltop and Mesa Developmental Services, helping others cope with physical disabilities. She herself spent the last nine years of her life living with transverse myelitis, a painful neurological disorder. Her husband Rich remembers how much she loved cuddling with cats and the comfort they provided.

When Emogene passed away in 2005, her husband established a donor-advised fund in her memory. Small grants have been made from this fund in recent years, but Rich wanted to do something with greater impact. He had heard about the organizational struggles at one local animal shelter. We worked with him over several months to convene a group of local animal welfare organizations to explore increasing effectiveness through collaboration. Ideas for sharing a volunteer coordinator and conducting a joint public education campaign were explored. The ongoing recession has meant more pet owners are out of work, resulting in an increase in abandoned pets and less funding for spay and neuter programs. Ultimately, the group determined that the greatest need was for subsidies for spay and neuter programs. A $25,000 grant was awarded to provide subsidies for pet sterilization.

“\textit{I had these rather vague ideas about wanting to do something that would make an impact. The staff at the Community Foundation helped me focus my ideas ... their help was invaluable.}” — Rich E.

Notes the donor, “I had these rather vague ideas about wanting to do something that would make an impact. The staff at the Community Foundation helped me focus my ideas and learn more about what would truly be helpful to these animal welfare organizations. Their help was invaluable.”

Penny McCarty, Director of the Mesa County Animal Services, commented: “Emogene’s Fund facilitated the sterilization of approximately 700 animals in Mesa County. This will have a huge impact on pet overpopulation. Displaced pets will have a better opportunity to find a loving, permanent home and we will be able to meet our goals of eliminating unnecessary euthanasia of displaced pets.”

Our Community Foundation provides a variety of services to donors:

- Research on organizations being considered for funding
- Research on issues of interest to donors and organizations working on these issues
- Help with developing new program initiatives or fostering collaboration amongst organizations
- Confirmation of charitable status with IRS and Colorado Secretary of State

Donor-advised funds and family foundations are the most flexible of our endowed funds.

Earnings are available every year for the donor family to grant to charities of their choosing. Children, grandchildren and other family members are frequently involved in the process, continuing the tradition of family philanthropy in memory of the donor.

Donor-advised funds are an attractive alternative to private foundations; all legal, tax and administrative requirements are handled by our organization.
Stephen B. and Anita Nickels Johnson Fund

Cultivating a Blooming Passion

Stephen Johnson loved flowers. As the son of the founder of Johnson House of Flowers, a family-owned local floral business since 1919, Steve worked daily with seeds and pots and flowers and vases. Anita Johnson remembers her late husband fondly. “He just loved flowers. It was always more than a business. Flowers were not just his living but his life. We used to joke that he must have been born in a flowerpot.” Anita moved to Grand Junction from California in the early 1970s to marry Steve. She was an active volunteer at the Western Colorado Botanical Gardens for many years.

Anita has recently set up a designated endowment fund at our Community Foundation. “I wanted to do something special to remember Steve. This fund will provide financial support to maintain and repair the greenhouse at the Botanical Gardens and to organize greenhouse programs for the public. These are things that would be near and dear to Steve’s heart. I know he would love to share his love of flowers and gardening with others in the community.”

Endowments provide a permanent source of funding for nonprofit organizations.

“Agency funds” are established by the nonprofit organization;

“designated funds” are established by a donor to provide ongoing annual support to a favorite nonprofit.

Working through WCCF, donors know their funds are expertly managed by an organization that specializes in charitable endowments.

Pooled investments can earn better returns. Donors can have confidence their contributions will be used as intended.

Western Slope Center for Children

Healing and Justice for Abused Children

For over 13 years, the Western Slope Center for Children has provided services for victims of child sexual abuse and assault in Mesa County. Last year, the Center provided services for 291 abused children and their families. In 2010, the WSCC board of directors voted to establish an endowment, a permanent fund that will provide earnings each year to support the mission and work of the Center.

Executive Director Shari Zen said, “The cycle of child sexual abuse has yet to be broken. We continue to focus our attention on providing support for healing and justice for our young victims and their families. This endowment fund is part of our strategic plan to build a strong financial foundation for our work, for many years to come. The Western Colorado Community Foundation has such a good reputation here in our community. We feel comfortable having this organization serve as our endowment management partner.”
Holy Family Catholic School

Where Faith and Knowledge Grow

Adjacent to Immaculate Heart of Mary Church on 26½ Road in Grand Junction, Holy Family Catholic School is the school home for some 410 youngsters in pre-school through 8th grade. The school prides itself for its strong sense of community, academic rigor and emphasis on values and character formation. A private school, Holy Family charges tuition to cover its expenses. Parents and friends of the school organize many fundraisers throughout the year to keep tuition affordable. Years ago a separate foundation was created to attract and manage endowed gifts to provide permanent funding support for the Catholic school. In 2010, the Holy Family Catholic Education Foundation board decided to dissolve their organization and transfer almost $1 million in assets to our Community Foundation to manage.

Two new designated funds have been established. One endowment will provide tuition assistance to students attending Holy Family Catholic School; a number of donors had set up named scholarship funds to provide financial assistance for students (see list to right). The other endowment will fund professional development for teachers and special projects that enrich the educational experience at the school.

Ann Ashwood, principal at Holy Family, is pleased about the merger. "The Community Foundation has an excellent reputation. We feel they will provide good stewardship and credibility for our donors; donors can have confidence their gifts will be well-managed and their wishes followed." Our two organizations will work closely together in the future. Holy Family School’s administration, parents and teachers will continue to engage in a variety of fundraising activities to generate revenues for the school each year. Supporters of the school who wish to make a major donation or end-of-life gift will work with the Community Foundation to plan gifts and establish named endowment funds.

In 2010, our Community Foundation awarded over $280,000 to 110 students to help them attend college and pursue their educational plans.

Education is a great gift to give a young person. A college degree can open doors and expand opportunities. WCCF currently holds 17 different funds that provide scholarships and we manage eleven different selection processes. We help refine eligibility guidelines and criteria for scholarships, advertise the availability of scholarships, review applications, interview students, and verify enrollment and grades.

Peter F. graduated from Ouray High School and is attending Colorado Mountain College Culinary Institute in Keystone thanks to a J. Robert Young Scholarship. He wants to be a chef and own his own restaurant. Here he is getting ready to tackle his ice sculpture.

Erin D. is one of our Genevieve Clough Scholarship recipients. Characterized as “ambitious, caring and strong” by her Rifle High School teachers, Erin’s dream is to attend Adams State College and become a physical therapist. While in high school, she volunteered in the rehabilitation department at Grand River Hospital.

Partnerships between smaller community foundations and larger, regional or statewide community foundations can increase administrative efficiencies and program effectiveness. Such affiliations are proving highly successful in parts of the country where limited population numbers make sustaining a full-service community foundation difficult.

The local community foundation brings its own leadership and visibility in the community, as well as an extensive knowledge of community needs, programs and resources. The regional community foundation provides strong back-office administration, investment and endowment management expertise.

Working in close collaboration with our affiliates in Garfield County, our Community Foundation made several grants to local nonprofits providing important services.

This year the 2 Rivers Community Foundation established its own endowment to provide ongoing funding to support their work in the Glenwood Springs area.

Supporting Nonprofits in the Local Community

The Rifle Community Foundation awards between $30,000 and $40,000 a year in financial support to a range of local nonprofit organizations and school groups. In 2010, they awarded $46,530 in grants.

Sundin Family Fund
Supporting Favorite Causes for Decades to Come

Hjalmar (Hal) Sundin moved with his wife, Mary, to Glenwood Springs in 1989. Their daughter, Norma, moved from Denver to Summit County about the same time. Hal embraced the outdoor lifestyle, enjoying skiing and hiking. Mary enjoyed tending her flower beds and was involved in the Glenwood Springs Garden Club. Hal has served on many local boards and for years he directed the activities of the 100 Club, an organization for active seniors.

Hal and his daughter were very close. After Mary passed away, father and daughter started talking about what they might do with the family’s assets. There are no grandchildren or other heirs. Those conversations evolved into a strong commitment and interest in charitable giving. The Sundin Family Fund will provide ongoing funding to a list of favorite charities that Hal and Norma developed together. These include many human services organizations, organizations supporting health issues and animal welfare organizations. Given their love of the outdoors, they wanted to support organizations like the Aspen Valley Land Trust, the Continental Divide Land Trust and the Wilderness Workshop.

Notes Hal, “I like the idea that I can trust the Community Foundation to shepherd our family’s fund and support the charities and organizations that Mary, Norma and I have cared about for years.”

Genevieve Clough
“A Chance to Succeed” Scholarship Program

A generous donor and champion of education, Genevieve Clough began working with our Community Foundation in 2007. Her scholarship program is a collaboration between our Community Foundation and the Colorado Mountain College (CMC) Foundation. Scholarships are awarded to graduating seniors from Rifle High School, Coal Ridge High School (Silt) and Grand Valley High School (Parachute). When she passed away this year, Mrs. Clough left a multi-million dollar estate gift to perpetuate the program.

Family friend Tom Stuver remembers Mrs. Clough’s passion for education and providing opportunities for young people. “Her motivation was, from the beginning, ‘a chance to succeed.’ That was the theme for the program. She really wanted to help students who may not have thought vocational or college programs were available to them.”

Mrs. Clough will be missed but her generous spirit and hopes for the young people of western Garfield County live on through the legacy she has established.

Ellen Jo Waldeck
A Heart of Gold

Ellen Jo Waldeck was born in Denver 86 years ago but lived in western Colorado most of her life, most of those years in Grand Junction. She made a very generous donation of a company holding a royalty interest in gold and other minerals to our Community Foundation just months before she passed away in early 2010. Income from the royalty interest is to be used to support nursing scholarships at Mesa State College and provide financial support to eight of her favorite nonprofit organizations in Mesa County.

Jo commented on her motivations for setting up this charitable legacy. “I’m so pleased to be able to make this gift to the community I’ve called home. I’ve been thinking for awhile, what do I need all of this money for? Nobody needs this much money.” Jo’s daughter, Susan Diaz, commented, “Mom has always had a very large heart for those who don’t have very much. She has been generous throughout her lifetime. She wanted to help some of the organizations in town providing basic needs to people who need help the most. My mom is leaving the world a better place — helping people she doesn’t even know — now and 50 and 100 years from now.”

Over $375,000 was distributed to the donor’s designated charities in 2010.
