Recruiting, Selection, and Placement

Host Sites should be prepared to actively engage in recruiting members for their positions. The process is similar to how you'd advertise and recruit for a formal position opening. Mountain Roots supports the recruitment process by posting open positions on National and State recruitment platforms and screening candidates for pre-qualification. Prospective Members apply through recruiting websites and can apply directly through the local Mountain Roots Healthy Futures Member Application.

The Host Site organization interviews and selects (offers) the member who will serve at your site. It is important that host site organizations actively participate to secure members in a timely manner to ensure proper enrollment and onboarding timelines. Members must be selected and enrolled a minimum of six weeks prior to their start date.

Sharing a Member (maximum of two organizations)

Glossary of Terms

AmeriCorps Member: An individual serving on a full-time or part-time basis in an AmeriCorps program who is eligible to receive an education award or alternative post service benefit. AmeriCorps members (not referred to as volunteers or employees) are special because they chose to give a substantial amount of their time to serve their community. While this is not without benefit to them, the benefit truly comes from how much effort and heart they put into the service. Because of their commitment, the Corporation for National and Community Service believes in providing members with as many opportunities for development and growth as possible. Therefore, the selection of members and their development is a very important component of all AmeriCorps programs. AmeriCorps member service activities should not duplicate the routine functions of or displace employees or existing volunteer.

AmeriCorps members who serve may come from your community, state, or anywhere around the country and will serve full time, three quarter time, or half time. Experience levels range from recent college grads to retired professionals. Members are different ages, genders, races, cultures and come from different socioeconomic backgrounds, yet all of them share the dedication and commitment of giving something back to the community and the mission of “getting things done.”

Host Site: This is a group or organization that acts as a project sponsor and is responsible for the actual location where a member is serving, and a project is to be performed. Host Sites develop member duties, assist with recruiting their member(s), and provide daily guidance, and mentorship. This entity may also provide task-specific training, technical assistance supervision, or other services as agreed to in a contract or other formal agreement between the program and the host site. Host Sites are selected through a competitive process based on whether their goals meet program objectives and critical community needs.

Host sites will provide the member with a well-defined position that has clear goals and objectives. Proposed member description must address the Food Systems, and/or Environment focus areas. Host sites should match the requirements with host site activities to fit their organization’s mission and the program goals.

Performance Measures: Performance Measures or measurable outcomes are indicators intended to help a grantee measure the results of an AmeriCorps program’s activities on community beneficiaries and participants. Performance measures are based on outputs, intermediate outcomes, and final outcomes.

Site Supervisor: Among other duties, the person designated as the Site Supervisor will attend a Site Supervisor orientation provided by the Program, orient and train the AmeriCorps member to the host organization, community, and project, hold regular meetings with the AmeriCorps member, complete required program forms, and maintain regular communication with the Program Director.

Serve Colorado (State Commission): A 15-25-member, independent, bipartisan commission appointed by a governor to implement service programs in a state. Each state commission receives funding from CNCS and awards AmeriCorps State program grants to eligible organizations to address critical community needs. Serve Colorado staff train and monitor sub-grantees to ensure compliance with federal grant regulations and maximize the impact of AmeriCorps programming.
